CLUB NOTES.

The December meeting of the Sarah Franklin Chapter, D. A. R., was held at 35 Q street, the home of its treasurer, Mrs. Fred H. Volland. The regent, Mrs. James E. Mulcare, presided.

Present as guests were Mrs. Ella M. Bull, regent of the James McCall Chapter; Mrs. Kessler, of the Monticello Chapter; and Mrs. Velma S. Barber, past State treasurer of the District of Columbia Daughters.

Mrs. Barber gave an interesting account of the original marking of the limits of the District of Columbia, showing, by reference to maps and drawings, the location of the several stones which marked the District's boundary. She told also of the progress the District Daughters of the American Revolution are making in the work of restoring and preserving the stone markers of the original survey.

Mrs. Volland, the hostess of the meeting, made a personal contribution of $150 for this work of re-marking the District line, but made it in the name of the chapter, thus enabling the chapter to select any stone not yet verified and marked and to inscribe upon the wicket fence that shall enclose it, the name of the Sarah Franklin Chapter.

Mrs. Robert Harrison, the historian of the chapter, read a paper on the "Dress, Customs, and Modes of Punishment 250 years ago."

Mrs. Edmund S. Wolfe read an interesting account from one of the Prince George County papers describing the presentation recently made of a United States flag to the Capitol Heights School by the Sarah Franklin Chapter.

The chapter, by vote, directed the treasurer to procure a "regent's bar" and present it to Mrs. Mulcare.

Tickets were distributed among the members of the chapter for a benefit performance at Poli's on the evening of January 11.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

The "Musical Thought of Shakespeare" was the theme discussed and expounded by the Washington Readers' Club at its December meeting on Tuesday evening at the Comstock Studio.

Mr. Frank Maxwell read a paper which went quite thoroughly into the subject. A particularly pleasing feature was the interpolation of the Shakespearean songs by Mrs. Maxwell, who gave among others "Who Is Sylvia," "Take, Oh, Take Those Lips Away," "Where the Bee Sucks," "It Was a Lover and His Lane," and "Hark, Hark the Lark."

Mrs. Maxwell was accompanied by Miss Johnson, who also gave as a separate piano number a selection that had been a favorite of Queen Elizabeth as picked out by her with quills on the Elizabethan period.

Miss May F. Sturman gave an excellent rendition of a scene from "Twelfth Night." A scene from "Othello" was presented by Mrs. Flora Hanson reading the part of Desdemona and Mrs. Emily French Barnes the part of Emilia. Desdemona's maid, Dr. Earle Wilsey, Miss Elizabeth Harrison and Mr. Maxwell closed the evening's program with a scene from the "Tempest," which was much enjoyed.

The regular business meeting of the club followed the intellectual hour and plans for the winter's entertainment were discussed and decided upon.

The Christmas meeting of the Potomac Literary Club was celebrated as a members' night on Tuesday evening at headquarters in Sixth street, with the president, Mr. F. M. Hoadley, presiding.

Mr. E. W. Weaver was the first to participate, confining his remarks to the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, which has just closed and in a very interesting manner told about the illuminations, the Fountain of Energy, the Tower of Jewels, the exhibits, and so forth.

Mr. S. A. Terry told of some humorous experiences; Mrs. Mary Lydell read a selection entitled, "But Once a Year," Clair Nye pleased with a piano solo, "Valchik," by Mokrejs; Miss Clara Thompson recited "The Enchanted Oak"; Miss Irene Low rendered very effectively a piano solo, "The Storm," by Weber; Mrs. Rosa L. Townsend sang a lullaby, "Swing Low," to her own accompaniment, and recited "Asphalt Pavement."

Mr. W. A. Edelin gave a short talk on the climate of Florida; Mr. H. M. Fulton told of his experiences in some of the European countries now at war; Mr. Wm. Tobina related interesting experiences and read selections entitled, "Flowers for the Living," and "The New Year."

Mrs. F. M. Hoadley read a selection entitled, "Christmas Flax," and Mr. H. H. House also related a number of interesting incidents connected with his trip to California.

The program was brought to a close by the president, Mr. Hoadley, reading an original poem, entitled "The Potomac Club's Punishment," in which the names of practically all the members were cleverly interwoven.

Refreshments were served.

Mr. Charles Henry Butler, official reporter of the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, transformed his annual Montevideo Farm breakfast into an entertainment for some of the Latin-American delegates to the Pan-American Scientific Congress.

The breakfast, which was served in Mr. Butler's library, at 1535 I street, consisted entirely of produce of Montevideo Farm in Maine, and the latter being the whole of pan-American.

The illustrations for the menu were made by Mr. Butler's youngest son, Mr. Henry Franklin Butler.

About 150 were present. Among the delegates who accepted Mr. Butler's invitation were: Dr. Eduardo de Quesada Laspiur, Ricardo Laspiur, and Dr. Brungo, from Argentina; Dr. Alberto de Medina and Alberto Gutierrez, from Bolivia; Dr. Jose de Costa Doria, Simoes da Silva, and Maguel de Oliveira Lima, from Brazil; Dr. Urrutia, from Colombia; Dr. Roberto Brenes Mesen, from Costa Rica; Lic.
